Conditions

You may ask your bank to reverse a direct debit up to 120 calendar days after the debit if:

- You don't receive a written notice of the amount and date of each direct debit from the initiator, or
- You receive a written notice but the amount or the date of debiting is different from the amount or the date specified on the notice.

The initiator is required to give a written notice of the amount and date of each direct debit in a series of direct debits no less than 10 calendar days before the date of the first direct debit in the series. The notice is to include:

- The dates of the debits, and
  - The amount of each direct debit.
- If the initiator proposes to change an amount or date of a direct debit specified in the notice, the initiator is required to give you notice no less than 30 calendar days before the change. You can also agree with the initiator to receive a same day notice for direct debits specifically requested by you.
- If the bank dishonours a direct debit but the initiator sends the direct debit again once within 5 business days of the dishonour, the initiator is not required to give you a second notice of the amount and date of the direct debit.
